STATEMENT

In this time of political unrest and global warming, apprehension enters the palette of many artists. There is both tenderness and tension in my paintings. The ever changing sky and precious water which dominate my compositions create a mood. People and animals inhabit these ethereal environments.

I remain committed to the act of making art by hand. When human beings first drew on the walls of caves people found a powerful, irreplaceable voice. The immediate connection of hand and eye to our interior human life opens endless possibilities for expression. My best ideas come to me in a flash...an image charged with beauty and passion which must be realized. The precise meaning remains a mystery, rich with possibilities. It is always a struggle to translate this inner vision to canvass with paint. Perfection is illusive.

My work is concerned with the eternal mysteries of life and the possibilities of things felt but unseen. Within these uncharted spaces we can find a way through difficulties both personal and political. The language of art still possesses the magical power to transform darkness into light.
